DETAILED ACTION

On January 30, 2008, an Office Action was sent to the Applicant rejecting claims 1-40. On June 27, 2008, the Applicant responded by amending claims 1, 15-16, 20-21, and 34.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

-Claims 1, 3, 7-10, 12, 14-15, 17-24, 26, 28-32, 34-37, and 3—40 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Gillin (7,010,512), as set forth in the previous Office Action mailed on January 30, 2008.

Gillin further discloses the use of a processing device (col.4, line 63 to col.5, line 52).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Claims 2, 4-6, 11, 13, 16, 25, 27, 33, and 38 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Gillin in view of Walker (5,945,653), as set forth in the previous Office Action.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed June 27, 2008 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. The Applicant argues that neither Gillin nor Walker discloses or teaches receiving information identifying a substitute collection technique or receiving such information and an authorization to credit a second payment amount to the substitute collection technique. In response, Gillin discloses receiving information identifying a substitute collection technique and receiving such information and an authorization to credit a second payment amount to the substitute collection technique. A transfer instrument is provided that may be linked to another account, which was used for payment (col.4, line 63 to col.5, lines 10). The user has the option of adding to the credit limit of the transfer instrument using cash or the card that was initially used for payment (substitute collection method --col.26, lines 55-63). The invention is not solely limited to the amount the user sets for the transfer instrument.

The account may be used in the event that more funds are needed for a purchase and the account may be set using an account parameter. For example, the user has the option of increasing the amount on the card for a college student using the account parameter, once the initial amount has been depleted. The user may also authorize an "overdraft limit", meaning that if the student is, for example, $20 over on the transfer instrument limit, the user's card may be charged for the purchase. Authorization to credit the account is received based on account parameters that specify an alternative source of payment to increase the credit limit. This may be done using convention funds transfer methods or another account specified (col.26, lines 55-63).

In response, to the Applicant's argument that there is no basis for combining the Gillin and Walker references, the Examiner recognizes that references cannot be arbitrarily combined and that there must be some reason why one skilled in the art would be motivated to make the proposed combination of the primary and secondary references. In re Nomiya, 184 USPQ 607 (CCPA 1975). However, there is no requirement that a motivation to make the modification be expressly articulated. The test for combining references is what the combination of disclosures taken as a whole would suggest to one of ordinary skill in the art. In re McLaughlin, 170 USPQ 209 (SSPA 1971). References are evaluate by they suggest to one versed in the art, rather than by their specific disclosures. In re Bozek, 163 USPQ 545 (CCPA) 1969. In this case, Gillin discloses a method of allowing a user to create a transfer instrument using charge accounts. Walker teaches a method for providing incentive for credit transactions. Both references employ the use of credit accounts. Therefore, the Examiner found reason to combine the references.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
